Canyon High School Students Win Laptop Computers

ORANGE, Calif., August 26, 2010 – The Orange Unified School District today announced five Canyon High School students were awarded laptop computers and up to two years of complementary internet service by the 2010 Mayor's Techscholar Program. The program is sponsored by the City of Anaheim and its Mayor Curt Pringle.

College-bound high school sophomores and juniors living in Anaheim and attending public or private high schools were eligible to apply.

The program was established in 2006 to help local students achieve their educational goals.

Student winners from Canyon High School were:

- Nathaniel Hom
- Amanda Huntington
- Michelle Kwon
- Andrea Navarrette
- Ali Tafreshi

Dr. Greg Bowden, Canyon High School principal said, "The Anaheim Mayor's Tech Scholar program has provided many Canyon High Students with the great resources of a laptop and internet access. We appreciate the opportunity this has given some of our top students to excel even further in their academic pursuits. Thanks to Curt Pringle and the City of Anaheim for supporting our students!"

The Orange Unified School District is located at 1401 North Handy Street in Orange, CA
